Wolf Trap Has Hot Summer Ahead

By Keith Loria

One of the goals of putting together any Wolf Trap season is to try to have something for everyone—music lovers of all ages and different musical genres. The Wolf Trap Performing Arts summer season is going to be one to remember, as the Filene Center will be hosting some of the biggest names in music, including Sting, Diana Ross, John Legend and many, many more.

The Changing Face of the Dulles Corridor

by Marcia McAllister

Just take a ride on those trains now running through Tysons, Reston, Herndon, Dulles Airport and eastern Loudoun County. The changes have come based on decades of planning by local governments maximizing the potential of the Silver Line to become sought-after commercial centers and multipurpose areas where people can work, live, play and be connected by trains to Arlington, DC and Largo, Maryland.

How do I find the best doctor for my child's tongue and lip tie frenectomy?

released on August 6, 2021 via Frontiers Music Srl on CD, Color Vinyl (a variety of limited edition versions), and Digital. The band began writing the album in early 2020, amid the rise of the global pandemic. After narrowing down the song selection and tightening them up to their well-known rock 'n roll sound, the band hit the studio, although separately, due to the times we are in. Throughout ATBPO we hear Night Ranger continuing their hot streak that kicked off with 2011's "Somewhere In California". Ten years on, and two highly acclaimed albums later, "High Road" and "Don't Let Up", the band's latest studio work shows them still burning with that high octane hard rock energy. Night Ranger has always had a knack for killer melodies, intricate instrumentation, and captivating lyrics; ATBPO delivers all of that and more.

WOLF TRAP HAS HOT SUMMER AHEAD

By Keith Loria

STING

September 1-2

The Wolf Trap Performing Arts summer season is going to be one to remember, as the Filene Center will be hosting some of the biggest names in music, including Sting, Diana Ross, John Legend and many, many more.

One of the goals of putting together any Wolf Trap season is to try to have something for everyone—music lovers of all ages and different musical genres.

“We are so lucky to be in the DMV and have so many populations from different backgrounds and we always think about our diverse community and have a three-person team with different areas of focus and expertise, working on reflecting everyone in our region,” says Sara Beesley, director of programming at Wolf Trap. “We want to make sure we are celebrating all who are emblematic of music in America.”

The Wolf Trap season kicks off with three nights featuring the Avett Brothers, May 25-27, which has become something of a tradition. Each show will be different and have a different opening act.

In June, John Legend plays at the beloved outdoor venue for two nights, June 2-3, with other highlights in the month including Charlie Puth (June 4), the Indigo Girls (June 7), Kenny Loggins (June 14), Trombone Shorty (June 17-18), the Steve Miller Band (June 22), and the team-up of Robert Plant and Alison Krauss (June 29).

The Out & About Festival, a two-day, three-stage festival of music and nature headlined by Brandi Carlile will take place the weekend of June 24-25. Others appearing include Yola, Rufus Wainwright, Lucius, Celisse, Jake Wesley Rogers and Bad Moves.

“We haven’t done a festival in over a decade, and we are celebrating LGBTQ artists and allies across the age spectrum,” Beesley says. “We’re also working with different partners who focus on supporting the LGBTQ community and celebrating love, nature and music.”

July kicks off with the immortal Diana Ross on July 1, with the iconic singer performing all of her and the Supremes’ favorites.

Tori Amos plays on July 5, with the month also seeing incredible acts such as UB40 (July 9), Boney James (July 19) and Big Tony and Trouble Funk (July 29).

On July 12, Broadway’s Christy Altomare, Shoba Narayan, Anneliese van der Pol and Syndee Winters join forces in “Disney Princess—The Concert,” where the four will perform Disney classics, aided by music director Benjamin Rauhala and their enchanting prince, Broadway’s Adam J. Levy.

Kids will also get excited about Kidz Bop on July 30, a pop concert where children performers sing some of today’s biggest hits on stage, including “Anti-Hero,” “About That Time,” and “As It Was.”

Regina Spektor and Aimee Mann share the stage on Aug. 3, with other highlights of the month including Lyle Lovett (Aug. 5), Jason Mraz (Aug. 6), John Fogerty (Aug. 19), Jethro Tull (Aug. 24), Mary Chapin Carpenter (Aug. 26), and Train (Aug. 27).

September sees two of the greatest singers of all-time back at Wolf Trap. The iconic Sting plays two nights, Sept. 1-2, playing such classics as “Roxanne,” “Message in a Bottle” and “Every Breath You Take.” Then the legendary James Taylor and his all-star band will come to Wolf Trap for three nights and perform all of his big hits, Sept. 7-9.

Fans of the ’80s won’t want to miss the double-bill of British new wave bands Squeeze and the Psychedelic Furs on Sept. 14.

Among the first-time performers this summer are Lauryn Hill (June 9), who will be celebrating the 25th anniversary of her acclaimed album, “The Miseducation of Lauryn Hill,” and Mexican singer/songwriter and 15-time Latin Grammy winner Natalia Lafourcade (July 20). International artists making Wolf Trap debuts include Indo-jazz supergroup Shakti

“We have an all-female programing team and it was really important to us to make sure we balance how often we are seeing women on the stage, and we have some great female artists, including Marisa Monte,” Beesley says. “Natalia Lafourcade is also going to be an amazing night.”

Wolf Trap will also celebrate the 50th anniversary of Hip Hop with two special programs—Masters of the Mic: Hip Hop 50 Tour featuring Big Daddy Kane, Doug E. Fresh, KRS-One, Rakim, Slick Rick, Roxanne Shante, and DJ Spinderella on Aug. 17; and Robert Glasper’s Black Radio: A Hip Hop 50 Celebration, a Kennedy Center Hip Hop Culture collaboration with Wolf Trap on Sept. 9.

Children’s Theatre-in-the-Woods’ seven-week season features the best in family entertainment including The Okee Dokee Brothers, Maryland Youth Ballet, Starr Chief Eagle, and more. Performances take place Tuesday through Saturday mornings at 10:30 a.m., June 20 through Aug. 5.

FALLS CHURCH, VA | $2,250,000

This large rambler offers 6 bedrooms, 6 full baths and 2 half baths all on one level. There is a billiards room, a bar, two large family rooms, and two office spaces all sitting on a beautifully landscaped 1-acre lot with a big flat area for kids to play on. There is a beautiful water feature and planting beds for a gardener as well as a little garden house. The home offers plenty of parking with a circular driveway. This is a custom home that was owned by the Koons family at one time; it has 15 foot ceilings, very dramatic and something that, if you're looking for one level living at its best with an incredible location off of sleepy Hollow near lake Barcroft, this home may be the one for you. You have a large patio area with an outdoor fireplace looking at the water features, and a pergola with barbecue grills. That's where you'll find the big flat area that makes it perfect for croquet, badminton, or any other type of outdoor activities you want.

Missy Whittington

FASTEST GROWING AGENT

Missy Whittington has lived in Vienna for 50+ years and is trusted and respected within the community. Her finance and accounting background led her to real estate in the fall of 2019, and within that short period of time, she has sold over $5 Million of homes. She received the "Fastest Growing Agent Award" earlier this year and plans to continue this upward trajectory into 2022. She attributes TRUST as the number one reason for her success saying, "when you hire a realtor to take on the sale of your home or to purchase a new one, you have to trust that this person will get you to settlement in a timely manner without drama and will continue to serve the client well after the transaction has closed."

Missy has grit and perseverance in her DNA and learned this about herself on the softball field as a youth. "When the going gets tough, the tough get going" and I've taken that to heart from the softball diamond to the real estate arena."

Let Missy be the one you can count on in Northern Virginia when it comes to your real estate needs. Seize the Day!

The Changing Face Of the Dulles Corridor

by Marcia McAllister

Any doubts that the Silver Line has begotten many changes?

Just take a ride on those trains now running through Tysons, Reston, Herndon, Dulles Airport and eastern Loudoun County. Gone are the dreadful service roads that used to line Route 7 and the mid-century low rise office parks, with acre after acre of paved parking lots.

Now these areas, including Tysons Corner, have lost the “corner”, and are referred to as the “City of Tysons”.

Reston has two commercial nodes—both at Silver Line stations. Big plans are unfolding near the Herndon Metrorail Station. Innovation Center Metrorail Station anchors the toll road Route 28 corridor and the Loudoun/Fairfax border. Washington Dulles International Airport is expanding, and Ashburn Metrorail Station area is home to the world’s largest concentration of data centers.

The changes have come based on decades of planning by local governments maximizing the potential of the Silver Line to become sought-after commercial centers and multipurpose areas where people can work, live, play and be connected by trains to Arlington, DC and Largo, Maryland.

The result is extraordinary for the users, the viewers and the regional economy. Recent data from Bisnow shows the Phase 1 Silver Line boosted office rates in Tysons, but data on impacts of Phase 2 are hard to find given the fallout from the pandemic and the delayed return-to-work. But there is plenty of enthusiasm for a positive future for the Silver Line corridor.

“You can see the economic development all around us,” said Jack Potter, Airports Authority CEO.

“Its a catalyst for new jobs and a foundation for future growth”, says veteran land use attorney Tony Calabrese, whose clientele have spanned the corridor. He is bullish about returning ridership post pandemic.

“The Silver Line runs through the county’s most vibrant regions and is a testament to federal, state and local leaderships. The capital markets, public and private equity, the office, residential, industrial, hospitality, mixed use and data center industries have demonstrated support for an ongoing Silver Line commitment,” he added.

“The coming expansion of United Airlines facilities at Dulles International and the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority’s decades-long determination to build the Silver Line will continue the push for communities that not only share sound economies, some of the nation’s top employers and educational facilities but also save commuting time for family fun and relaxation.”

Just check out the hotels, parks, Capital One Hall, and baseball, Pickleball at the Boro, historic spaces, restaurants, Tyson Galleria, Loudoun’s wineries, Leesburg’s outlets and antiques, Reston Town Center, Wolf Trap, Arrowbrook Trail and park in Herndon, pocket parks and the list goes on.

“Bringing the Silver Line to Tysons has been a game changer for the broader community, acting as a catalyst for smart and vibrant growth,” said Capital One Center managing director Jonathan Griffith.

It is easy walking distance to the McLean Metrorail Station and the expanded Mitre Corporation is nearby. Block after block of high rise condos and apartments continue replacing older units along the edge of Pimmit Hills, and the new beltway crossover that eases traffic.

Some property owners are converting commercial sites to residential. That's what is happening to the former Sheraton Hotel which not so long ago was Tysons' tallest building. Several car dealers on Route 7 will be demolished for workforce housing. At the same time, a long-awaited complex is rising adjacent to the Spring Hill Metrorail Station. Lerner Enterprises is building in the heart of Tysons, next to the Galleria.

Meanwhile, there is talk of a possible deal involving the dealership near Wendy's on Route 7 at Route 123 that could span major changes for that area near the Greensboro Metrorail Station. In addition, recent reports from Bisnow Washington reported that the Silver Line Phase I has boosted office rents in Tysons.

Head west to Wiehle Reston East Station

(which was the end of Phase 1) where you will see Comstock's Reston Station development including Google offices, condominiums, CVS and a new luxury JW Marriott and Hotel Residence is coming soon at Reston Station. The Wiehle Reston East station area continues to attract tenants, but passengers have dropped because they can now board at the Ashburn Metrorail Station where Comstock also owns the Ashburn Station private development. The Old Ebbitt Grill, a modern version of DC's old treasure, is also coming there.

"The D.C. metro area is one of the top [metropolitan statistical areas] in the country, so you don't really have to tell other developers. They've got it", says Tim Steffen, CEO of Comstock Holdings. "There is a great deal of education. There is a great deal of income and thought that flows through the market."

Moving into Phase 2 of the Silver Line:

Earlier this month, regional real estate executives gathered at Comstock's Reston headquarters to focus on what's happening in the Reston/Herndon markets. The event was sponsored by Bisnow who promoted the event as a focus on the fast growing Herndon-Reston real estate market.

Lerner Enterprises' is building a mixed use development almost at the door of the Herndon Metrorail Station. The town of Herndon has detailed plans for that station. Near the Innovation Center Metrorail Station, development continues on the south side of the toll road and on the north of Center for Innovative Technology, but all eyes are on the future of Rivana, a 103-acre transit oriented development straddling the Loudoun-Fairfax line with about 1.8 million square feet of office, 2,000 multi-family housing units, retail, and banquet space proposed by Novais Partners and others.

"Looking for high-quality office space in a post-Covid environment, just one stop from Dulles International Airport, Rivana sets a new bar for mixed use developments and creates a new level of what is Loudoun Possible," says Buddy Rizer, the Executive Director of Loudoun Economic Development. A decision by Loudoun supervisors was pending at the time.

The International Airport at Dulles is home to the Dulles Airport Metrorail Station and has made changes to better serve its users. And a major expansion will soon begin.

The land near Loudoun Gateway Metrorail Station is restricted by airport height and noise regulations.

Ashburn Metrorail Station, at the end of the line, has already thriving office, retail and entertainment spaces in Comstock's Ashburn Station developments and is also near Brambleton and Moorefield communities. ♦

Wine Education that's Fun for Everyday People

Little Washington Winery's Wine Education Classes allow everyone at every level to enjoy food and wine while learning about wine.

By Linda Barrett

I had heard great things about the weekend wine education classes offered by Carl and Donna Henrickson, owners of Little Washington Winery, and had to check it out for myself.

We signed up for the Vintners Table Learning Lunch where Donna provided a guided wine and food pairing exploring tapas-sized foods that took us through entrees, a cheese course, desserts and chocolate delicacies (from their own chocolate shop). Each food was paired with a different wine or port-style wine. We were more than full, and surprised by what did—and wouldn't—pair well together.

One of the most valuable take-aways was the Little Washington Winery's Cheat Sheet. It lists the type of wine, the main flavors associate with it and the perfect food pairings. Hang this in your kitchen and you'll never question which wine goes with what foods again.

Play Along for Discounts!

To encourage repeat visits, you'll receive a Passport. Check off wine education classes you attend—do any four and get 1 class free! We also played along with the Vino Trifecta Treasure Hunt. Visit their 3 tasting rooms (Little Washington Winery, Little Washington BreWinery, and Wine Loves Chocolate), obtain a stamp or signature at each, and earn a Treasure Hunt Bag. Ours included a crystal Riedel Wine Glass, one ticket to a Foodie-U Wine Class, a stamp on your Foodie-U Passport (a $100+ value!) and purchase discounts.

Back to the Beginning

Carl Henrickson explained how the idea for wine classes got started. “When we opened our winery in 2011, we wondered why people weren’t arriving until after 2 PM. We figured out they were stopping at other wineries on the way here. So we decided to send out a marketing piece about our morning Wine Boot Camp. And yikes...1,700 people signed up,” he exclaimed! “After we waded through those 1,700, people asked us ‘What’s next?’ So in 2012, Donna created Foodie-U.”

The wine school now offers around two dozen classes featuring two major orientations: wine-centric and food-centric. “We offer serious information, but set the tone for a little more casual atmosphere,” Carl continued. “When people ask me ‘Is wine so serious?’ I answer, ‘No, it’s not serious. It’s just a beverage! Do you like it or not?’ That’s the bottom line. If you do, buy it and enjoy it. This makes the enjoyment of wine accessible to everyday people.”

Choose an in-person class led by either Donna or Carl, their winemaker, sommeliers or guest speakers, and enjoy a morning or afternoon with great wine and great people. Others at our table were working their way through ALL the classes!

Wine Education Classes

There is a tantalizing array of courses to suit every interest, with new ones appearing from time to time, driven by customer demand. But everyone should take Wine Boot Camp, the school’s signature course on wines that Carl calls “Wine 301.” It’s filled with wine tastings, anecdotes and tidbits about wine that nobody else tells you about. (Note: In wine classes like Boot Camp, you get to drink a lot of wine, so

Carl encourages you to bring along food or purchase some of their pre-packaged items for sale. (Feel free to enjoy it at the table.)

Other classes include Around the World in 80 Minutes, showcasing the finest wine regions in the world; Virginia Versus the World™ pitting Virginia wines against international competitors in a blind tasting; The World’s Iconic Masterpieces of Wine and their long histories; and classes featuring specific wine regions around the world. Test your taste buds in a tasting of Bordeaux-style wines in Guess the $100 Bordeaux and see if you can guess the $100 bottle. If you do, you can win your next Live Tasting free!

“One thing we constantly try to do is give you wine grapes and regions you’ve never heard of before, like a Merlot Corvina blend—I’ll bet you’ve never heard of the Corvina grape!” Carl challenged.

All photos credit: Linda Barrett

FoodieU's tag line, "Straight talk in plain English all about enjoying food and wine," about sums it up. The classes are guaranteed to make wine tasting fun with their upscale foods that help you learn while you taste.

Courses include Cheeseology, on how to pair six categories of wines and cheeses; How to Pair Dessert & Wine, demonstrating how to get a perfect dessert and wine pairing every time; Anatomy of an Epic Nosh Board exploring the popular charcuterie board adventure; and Triple Threat—Chocolate, Cheese & Wine among the offerings.

Beer Education Classes

You're in luck if you like beer because the Little Washington school is offering beer classes (they have a brewery too) including Beer Boot Camp exploring the style differences and hottest trends of craft beer; Beer Cheeseology to discover what pairs best; Choco-Brew Challenge; and Beer & Food Pairing.

Other things to do at the winery can include ordering a picnic for two, playing disc golf, wine retreats, Saturday concerts, and attending special events like the annual Winestock festival in May.

Sign Up for your Wine Education Classes

"We never have enough information about wine, but come because you enjoy wine," Carl encouraged. Classes are held usually twice a day on the weekends. View the list of courses at littlewashingtonwinery.com/wineschool and sign up for the ones that pique your interest. Warning: they sell out quickly. Advance registration is required! ♦

TREATING LIP AND TONGUE-TIES

How do I find the best doctor for my child's tongue and lip tie frenectomy?

Not every frenectomy provider has the experience, skill, and knowledge to treat tethered oral tissues, but it can be crucial for both you and your child to find an experienced frenectomy provider to get the best post procedure outcome. Here are some tips for selecting a provider that specializes in frenectomies for Lip and Tongue Ties!

Considerations regarding Provider Skill for a safe and effective procedure:

Do they provide a 'small clip' of the tissue or a full release of the tether(s)? A small clip is not the same as a full release, and a full release is indicated for a good range of motion of the tongue and lip and total symptom resolution.

Do they have the highest level of proficiency and certifications from accredited laser dentistry organizations? Clinical training in the form of didactic education as well as hands on training is important for gaining the necessary skills required for safe and thorough removal of ties. Providers that have gone the extra mile to obtain their education, training and certifications from an accredited organization such as the Academy of Laser dentistry or World Clinical Laser Institute have a proven record of their knowledge and skill level. Advanced Proficiency and Master Level Status in Laser Dentistry are the highest level of certifications achieved by professionals. They have to go through the steps of didactic examinations, Case Presentations and Peer Case Reviews in oral and written format. This allows for review and critique of their diagnosis, treatment planning and short term as well as long term outcomes.

Do they have experience with a variety of age levels? Taking into consideration the experience and comfort level of each provider is important. Laser treatments of infants and toddlers is challenging on more than one level. A board certified pediatric dentist has years of additional training for landmarks, anatomy and physiology of infants, toddlers and children with special needs.

Do they have a background in infant feeding and lactation support? Knowledge of infant feeding and oral motor functional assessments are key to proper diagnosis and treatment. Hours of didactic education and examination of knowledge acquired is a long process that curates the provider's understanding of breastfeeding physiology as well as oral mechanics.

Considerations regarding provider protocols and support for best long term outcomes:

Do they provide aftercare wound instructions? Proper management of the healing is important to prevent reattachment of the tissue and to see optimal functional improvement after the procedure.

Do they have an Infant Care Team that supports communication and guidance post procedure? Having a designated person or infant team that coordinates with your other care providers, is easily accessible and can give you all the best tips for making your baby's frenectomy experience a positive one is so important!

Do they offer follow up appointments? Being seen for strategically timed follow ups to check progress with wound healing and successful aftercare at home is absolutely essential for the best long term outcomes.

Do they coordinate care with lactation support or feeding therapy for optimal support of both maternal and infant health and feeding? The frenectomy itself gives the lip and/or tongue the ability to have full range of motion, but translating that to the skill of feeding efficiently relies heavily on targeted functional support from infant feeding specialists such as lactation consultants or feeding therapists as applicable.

Do they consider the mouth-body connection and focus on neuromuscular regulation as well as optimal suck, swallow, breathe rhythmic coordination? Providers that understand the mouth-body connection are able to assess and impact the overall function and have excellent long term outcomes by collaborating with occupational therapists, physical therapists, chiropractors and infant massage therapists as applicable.

Tysons Community Alliance Board

Katie Cristol as the Organization's new Chief Executive Officer

by Marcia McAllister

Tysons Community Alliance has selected Katie Cristol to lead the organization as its first permanent Chief Executive Officer. Cristol will start with TCA on July 5, 2023, taking the reins from Acting CEO Richard Bradley who has been in the post since November 2021 leading efforts in the establishment and launch of the new community improvement district. Cristol announced in 2022 she would not seek reelection for another term on the Arlington County Board after her second term concluded this year. Cristol has served on the Board since November 2015 and served as its Chair in 2018 and 2021.

"We are thrilled to have Katie Cristol as the new CEO for the Tysons Community Alliance," said TCA Chair Josh White. "Katie has a proven track record of championing inclusivity, collaboration and community engagement. She is a well-respected leader and consummate professional with experience in catalyzing communities and urban management planning efforts in transportation, sustainability and economic development. We are thrilled to have her leading the organization as we continue to progress our work at the TCA and for Tysons."

"I am honored to be selected by the Tysons Community Alliance Board, and truly look forward to doing the work I love in our dynamic Northern Virginia region," said Cristol. "I'm compelled by the organization's focus on community building and inclusive, equitable economic growth, along with its vision for Tysons as a thriving regional downtown. Particularly exciting to me is how the TCA has already brought together the private and public sector and created a foundation of collaborative partnership on which to build. In the months ahead, we'll be growing the efforts already underway in coalition building and strategic planning, while starting to deliver tactical results and improvements for the Tysons community."

Providence Supervisor Dalia Palchik who championed for a community-based improvement district to be inclusive of residents, businesses and the public sector was equally pleased with the selection. She stated, "Katie Cristol will bring the necessary energy and broad approach to the TCA. She is an organized and strategic leader who knows how to move the needle to get key initiatives across the finish line. Her enthusiasm and ability to push projects forward within a collaborative environment will serve Tysons and the TCA well. We are thrilled to have her serve as the TCA's new CEO."

Cristol is a recognized leader in the region. In addition to serving on the Arlington County Board for eight years, she served on numerous boards including the Northern Virginia Transportation Authority and the Northern Virginia Transportation Commission where she also served as Chair. Additionally, she has served in leadership roles in the Virginia Municipal League, The Virginia Railway Express Operations Board and the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments Human Services Policy Committee. She is a strong advocate for affordable housing, racial equity and women's issues. She holds a public policy master's degree from Princeton University and a bachelor's degree from the University of Virginia.

Cristol comes to the TCA as the organization is moving forward with key initiatives including a strategic plan, a market research study, and placemaking activation planning. The TCA has a full load of events it has already hosted with more in the works including its inaugural May Music Month at The Boro along with a planned summer music series and its popular monthly Connector Happy Hours. For more information on these events and others happening in Tysons visit tysonsva.org/events.
